Moran Joins Senate, House Members to Announce Fiscal Responsibility Working Group

Congressman Moran, along with Senate and House members, announce the Fiscal Responsibility Working Group at a Press Conference in Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressmen Jerry Moran today joined Senator John Thune, Vice Chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, and Congressman Eric Cantor, House Republican Whip, along with other Senate and House Republicans to announce the House-Senate Fiscal Responsibility Working Group. The program will monitor how the administration spends the $787 billion stimulus package to ensure that taxpayer's dollars are spent responsibly.

"The $787 billion spending package is a massive amount of money," Moran said.

"There are significant economic challenges facing American families, businesses and farmers and they need our promise that their money will be well spent. This working group will help oversee the management of the stimulus funds to prevent taxpayers' dollars from being wasted, abused or mishandled.

"The Congress owes it to the public to provide an accountable and trustworthy oversight process that will promote job growth. Fiscal Responsibility needs to be an important detail of the spending package if we are to stimulate our economy and I am glad to be participating in the effort to make that happen."

The following members of Congress participated in the press conference today: Senator John Thune (SD), Senator John Cornyn (TX), Senator Johnny Isakson (GA), Congressman Eric Cantor (VA), Congressman Paul Ryan (WI), Congressman Jeb Hensarling (TX), Congressman Darrell Issa (CA) and Congressman Kevin Brady (TX)
