Moran Names 2004 Service Academy Selection Board

Interviews of U.S. Service Academy Candidates Planned for November 13

ABILENE - Congressman Jerry Moran has announced the 2004 First District Service Academy Selection Board. The sixteen-member board will meet in November to interview prospective candidates for admission to U.S. Service Academies. Following the interviews, the board will make recommendations to Moran for final selection.

Candidates being interviewed have already submitted their applications for the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, New York; U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland; U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado; or U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, New York. They now enter the final stage of the selection process.

"Service academies help to shape the next generation of military leaders, and I am honored to be a part of the nomination process," Moran said. "The members of the 2004 Selection Committee are respected members of their communities who represent a rich cross-section of Kansas who understand the importance of military service and dedication. I look forward to working with them and appreciate their service to our state and nation."

The board will meet Saturday, November 13, at the Dwight D. Eisenhower Library in Abilene to interview candidates. The members of the 2004 First District Service Academy Selection Board are:
